Gelilah

The one who ties and dresses the Torah

Upon being called for your honor, please sit next to the rabbi. You will then proceed to the right side of the Reader's Table.

When the Torah is lifted from the Reader's Table, it will be brought to the seat next to the rabbi's. Follow the Torah to that seat. If the Torah is at all open, take the top handles of the Torah and roll it tight. You will then be handed the tie, which is placed around the Torah and buckled in the front. The mantle (cloth cover) is then placed over the Torah with the design facing the person holding the Torah.. The pointer is placed on the left handle. Someone will then take the Torah to the holder on the side of the Bimah.

When the Torah is taken, you may return to your seat. As you do so, please allow those on the Bimah to congratulate you on your honor.

Reminder: Men must wear a kippah and a tallit.
